Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they will be filled. Matthew 5:6

- † This week pray for all who are suffering because of man's inhumanity to man. Pray for the innocents throughout the world who get caught up in causes which have nothing to do with their ordinary lives. Ask God to be with them and strengthen them through the dark days.
- † This week pray for those who are sick whether this is at home or in hospital. Ask that the carers may be given the skills and the compassion to make their lives more bearable.
- † This week pray for the children in our community, our land and our world. Ask that they may be given every chance to reach their amazing potential and be what God intends them to be.
- † When the pattern of my life lacks all distinction, God, transform me. When the mould I am squeezed into has no colour, renew my mind. When I trust in the content of my wallet, teach me, God, instead to be content. The joy of a mind immune to the magnet of money. Measure me up for my new body, Father. Ready me for resurrection. Project a sky-wide vision of all that is promised. May I worship as I wait. (Gerard Kelly co-founder of the Bless Network)

How happy are those who no longer need books but carry the psalms in their heart wherever they are and wherever they go. (Henri Nouwen)
